- Annual Average Labor Force Estimates for 2004 and County Changes
- Tennessee Historical Civilian Labor Force Series, 1975 to Present
- County Unemployment Rates
- Civilian Labor Force Summary
- State Unemployment Insurance Activities

Chattanooga MSA	7
Knoxville MSA	8
Memphis MSA	9
Nashville MSA	10
Smaller MSAs	11
Consumer Price Index	12

The statewide unemployment rate in 2004 was 5.4 percent, down 0.1 point from the previous year. The United States' unemployment rate went from 6 in 2003 to 5.5 in 2004. This is the first time since 2000 that the national unemployment rate has decreased. During the last seven years, the Tennessee annual average unemployment rate has been equal or below the U.S. average.

Metropolitan Statistical Areas (MSAs) have at least one urban center of greater than 50,000 population, plus adjacent counties with a high degree of social and economic integration. Redefinitions of the MSAs are based on the data obtained during the 2000 Census. This is the first year that new MSA definitions were used for labor force and/or unemployment rates. All states are going back four years (2000 through 2004) to benchmark data so historical data will be available. Not all these past years are available as of this printing.

The MSA changes are as follows (in alphabetical order): Chattanooga MSA added Sequatchie County; Clarksville MSA added Stewart County and Trigg County, KY; Cleveland MSA is a new MSA; Tri-Cities MSA was divided into two new MSAs – Johnson City and Kingsport-Bristol, TN-VA; Knoxville MSA lost Sevier County from the MSA; Memphis MSA added Mississippi counties Marshall, Tate, and Tunica; Morristown MSA is a new MSA; and Nashville-Murfreesboro MSA added five new counties – Cannon, Hickman, Macon, Smith, and Trousdale.

Micropolitan statistical areas, a new definition based on the 2000 census, have at least one urban cluster of greater than 10,000 but less than 50,000 population, plus adjacent counties with a high degree of social and economic integration. There are 20 new mi-cropolitan statistical areas. They are: Athens, Brownsville, Columbia, Cookeville, Crossville, Dyersburg, Greeneville, Harriman, Humboldt, LaFollette, Lawrenceburg, Lewisburg, Martin, McMinnville, Newport, Paris, Sevierville, Shelbyville, Tullahoma, and Union City, TN-KY.

There are 31 additional counties that are in neither a metropolitan nor a micropolitan statistical area. They are listed and noted with data on Page 2.

In addition, this department is now releasing the labor force and unemployment rates for 24 cities that have a population greater than 25,000. These include the major city within larger MSA cities. They also include larger cities within an MSA (examples include Collierville, Franklin, Gallatin, and Oak Ridge). Counties that have more than 25,000 may not have cities with enough population to be listed separately (example: Greene County and Greeneville).

NONFARM EMPLOYMENT AND LABOR FORCE IN TENNESSEE

Tennessee's seasonally adjusted estimated unemployment rate for June 2005 was 6 percent, down two-tenths percent from the May 2005 rate. This is the sixth month that Tennessee had a seasonally adjusted unemployment rate higher than the national rate.

The United States' unemployment rate was 5 percent in June 2005. In June 2004, the national unemployment rate was 5.6 percent, and the state's unemployment rate was 5.3 percent.

Across Tennessee, the not-seasonally adjusted unemployment rate increased in 92 counties, decreased in one county, and remained the same in two counties. The lowest rate occurred in Williamson County at 4.2 percent, up 0.3 percent from the previous month. The highest rate was Wayne County's 13.5 percent, up from 12.9 percent in May. Total nonfarm employment increased by 20,100 jobs from June 2004 to June 2005. During this period, there were increases in health care/social assistance (up 6,000 jobs), which includes increases of 3,400 jobs in ambulatory health care services and 1,700 jobs in hospitals; retail trade (up 4,300 jobs), which includes an increase of 1,800 jobs in general merchandise stores; leisure/hospitality (up 3,100 jobs), which includes an increase of 3,700 jobs in food services/ drinking places and a decline of 1,700 jobs in accommodation; construction (up 2,200 jobs); wholesale trade (up 2,100 jobs), which includes an increase of 1,100 jobs in wholesale electronic markets; financial activities (up 2,100 jobs), which includes an increase of 1,200 jobs in finance/insurance and local government educational services and professional/business services (both up 1,800 jobs). This was partially offset by drops in information (down 1,500 jobs) and state government educational services (down 1,100 jobs).

During June, nonfarm employment decreased by 2,000 jobs. There were seasonal school declines in local government educational services (down 11,100 jobs), state government educational services (down 3,400 jobs), and educational services (down 2,200 jobs). This was offset by increases in construction (up 1,900 jobs); professional/business services (up 1,700 jobs); accommodation/food services (up 1,500 jobs), which includes an increase of 1,300 jobs in accommodation; and health care/social assistance (up 1,500 jobs).

The data from all the nonfarm employment estimates tables include all full- and part-time nonfarm wage and salary employees who worked during or received pay for any part of the pay period that includes the 12th of the month. This is a count of jobs by place of work. Agricultural workers, proprietors, self-employed persons, workers in private households, and unpaid family workers are excluded. These numbers may not add due to rounding. Data are based on the 2004 benchmark.

Total nonfarm employment decreased by 2,600 jobs from May to June. There were seasonal decreases in local government (down 3,100 jobs) and educational/health services (down 200 jobs). This was partially offset by increases in leisure/hospitality and natural resources/mining/construction (both up 300 jobs).

During the past 12 months, nonfarm employment increased by 2,100 jobs. During that time, goods-producing jobs remained constant, while service-providing jobs provided the entire increase.
